

While not mountain climbing in his free time, Mr. Milka also enjoys sponge diving, chainsaw sculpturing, and fantasy cosplay. His biggest accomplishment to date was an uncredited appearance as a background extra (a Bajoran) on an episode of ST:DS9. Mr. Milka met the love of his life, Mrs. Milka, during a three-week cactus safari in the Sahara Desert. He was instantly smitten with her Mona Lisa smile and Picasso eyes. Combined, they have six offspring of assorted shapes and sizes, the youngest one in curls. When he retires from his current gig as an undercover CIA agent posing as a math teacher in a small high school of wayward overachievers, he hopes to open a boneless chicken ranch, before eventually returning to his home planet. Live long and prosper!

Still here? Okay, the truth is that I have been teaching in KPS for 37+ years, the last 22 here at KAMSC. I am originally from Bay City, Michigan, and came to Kalamazoo in 1981 to attend Western Michigan University. I have a BA in Secondary Education, and MAs in both Mathematics Education and Educational Leadership, all from WMU. Go Broncos! I love teaching at KAMSC, because when I was in high school, I was exactly like the kind of students who come here. My wife and I just celebrated our 35th wedding anniversary, and our two sons are enjoying their respective careers in computer engineering and firefighting. Each summer, we try to take time to travel and visit our families. And yes, I like Star Trek. - And Taylor Swift!